Republicans Protest New Assessors' Board

State Names Democratic Trio to $5000 Jobs Paid by County

Montgomery County's newly ap-pointed Democratic Board of Asses-sors took office this week—under protest of the former Republican mem-bers. Joseph McElwee of Valley road, Merion, took the place of an-other Main Liner, William T. War-ren of Linwood avenue, Ardmore, in the shake-up.

McElwee is Merion committeeman and resident secretary of the execu-tive committee of the Democratic county organization. Warren is Re-publican committeeman in South Ard-more, precinct No. 2. The jobs on the board of assessors pay $5000 a year.

Appointment of the new board was necessitated by the passage of the legislative "ripper" bill removing the old board.

In addition to Warren the old board included Norman Zendt of Souderton and James Hynes of Chel-tenham. The other two members of the Democratic board are Francis Hayes of Norristown and Raymond K. Mensch of Gilbertsville.

Under the provisions of the ripper act, signed last week by Governor George H. Earle of Haverford, the appointment of a new board of assess-ment and revision of taxes in five Pennsylvania counties was transferred from the county commissioners to the State auditor general, in this case, Warren R. Roberts.

It is on this part of the act that the Republican protests were made, and the constitutionality of the pro-ceedings will be tested in the courts. Leading Republicans of the county doubt the power of State officers to appoint men to jobs for which the county pays the salaries.

For a short time last Tuesday afternoon, both boards of assessors claimed the legal rights to the job, and occupied the same office. After some discussion, however, the mem-bers of the old Republican board turned over the office to the new-comers—under protest.

The new members of the board all were recommended to the auditor gen-eral by a meeting of the executive committee of the Democratic party of this county held in Norristown last Friday night.

Borough Girl Neither Tardy Nor Absent During 12 School Years

Believed to be the first person ever to graduate from the Lower Merion High School with a perfect attend-ance record, Miss Jane C. Nash will receive her diploma this evening at Ardmore.

Miss Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Nash, of Narberth and Price avenues, Narberth, in twelve years' attendance at the Narberth Public School and the Lower Merion Junior and Senior High Schools has been neither tardy nor absent from the recitation rooms for even a day.

In order to keep her record perfect during the last year, Miss Nash has attended school several days while threatened with illness.

George H. Gilbert, principal of the high school, said that while records of all previous years were not available, he did not believe any other Lower Merion student had ever completed a perfect attendance.

Ditter Leads Attack on "Political Relief"

Republican Congressman Sup- ported by Democrats in Ef- fort to Eliminate Poli- tics in W. P. A.

In an effort to eliminate "political racketeering" in the distribution of Federal relief funds, J. William Ditter, Montgomery County Congress-man, has attracted wide support in the House of Representatives for his proposal to purge W. P. A. of all par-tisan activities.

The open support of many influen-tial Democrats has enabled Ditter, a militant Republican, to expose on the floor of the House recently the system of "political relief" which now pre-vals in every State in the Union. The scourge of politics has been par-ticularly destructive to genuine relief throughout Pennsylvania, where the Democratic State organization has frankly managed the Federal dona-tions as a part of the State campaign fund.

"No man in this House opposes the principle of genuine relief to the needy," Ditter told his colleagues, "but when forty cents of every relief dollar goes for administrative ex-penses and overhead, then we have developed, not a system of relief ad-ministration, but a cruel and heart-

Narberth Regains Lead, Taking 3 of 4 Holiday Weekend Games

Winning three games out of four played, Narberth's baseball team lost the Main Line League lead and re-gained it during the holiday week-end.

Upset Saturday by the Pottstown nine which scored a surprise 2-1 vic-tory over the Davismen, the latter came back Sunday to trounce the hitherto undefeated Downingtown players 7 to 2, and then on Memorial Day took undisputed possession of the top rung by wins, 5-4 over Brook-line and 19-9 over Paoli. Besides losing to the boroughites, the Brook-line Hares also suffered a 11-10 de-feat at the hands of Gladwyne and dropped from first to third place.

The bearded men from the House of David will be the opposition this Saturday afternoon. This game is always keenly contested and draws a big crowd.

The league schedule for Narberth

June 6, Royersford; June 12, Media; June 13, Gladwyne; June 19, Upper Darby; June 20, Pottstown; June 26, Downingtown; June 27, Coatesville; July 3, Media.

Start Investigation of Main Line Taprooms

Charges Made After Youths Are Arrested for Gambling

Agents of the Pennsylvania State Liquor Control Board launched an in-vestigation of Main Line taprooms on Monday of this week, following charges by public officials and private citizens that proprietors of these places serve liquor and beer to minors. It is considered doubtful, however, that any arrests will be made, as tap-room operators have had ample warn-ing, and will probably mend their ways, at least during the investiga-tion.

First charges that taprooms were selling liquor to minors were made last Thursday morning, following the arrest of five youths for petty gam-bling near a Main Line cafe. The father of one of the youths during a hearing before Magistrate Walter B. Lownes, charged that flagrant and open violations of the liquor laws with reference to minors were being carried on.

Magistrate Lownes explained that local police had nothing to do with the enforcement of the minor law, but said that he would back up any movement that would stamp out this practice on the Main Line.

Following this formal complaints were made to the office of the State Liquor Control Board in Philadelphia.

The situation was further aggra-vated by the arrest of a seventeen-year-old Main Line girl Saturday night, who was found wandering and screaming on a public highway. Taken to the police station, she was pro-nounced drunk, and at a hearing was fined $10 with $7 costs.

Memorial Grouping Honoring Veterans Given to Borough

Frank A. Schrepfer Expresses Hope for Peace at Presentation

PARADE IS LARGEST EVER

"May this be the last Memorial to the nation's soldier dead ever to be erected in Narberth."

Thus last Monday Frank A. Schrep-fer expressed the hope for Peace of the veterans and borough citizens assembled to witness the presentation of the Memorial Grouping to the borough.

In behalf of the Harold D. Speak-man Post, Mr. Schrepfer presented the Memorial, in the grouping of which at Wynnewood and Windsor avenues he has been both planning expert and director in charge of op-erations.

He told of the work that several members of the post had accomplished in order to assemble in the beautiful plot the memorial tablet, originally built by a Narberth Citizens' Com-mittee, the flagpole and the piece of ordnance. He also thanked the bor-ough residents who have helped to defray the cost of materials used in the grouping.

A letter to citizens has been mailed by William H. Durbin, chairman of the committee in charge of financing the memorial, and gratifying returns have been reported to date.

The parade which preceded the presentation of the Memorial Group-ing was the largest in the history of the Narberth Post. Many of the town's organizations were repre-sented, a delegation was present from the Bullock-Sanderson Post of Ard-more, and Lieutenant Commander Walter O'Sullivan, marshal of the procession, also commanded a com-pany of sixty sailors from the Navy Yard who furnished the color guard and also a rifle squad who fired a volley at the dedication.

Occupying the honor position in the parade was Henry Doll, Narberth's only surviving Civil War Veteran who served on Admiral Farragut's flag-ship.

An annual thrill was given the school children who occupied every inch of available space on the fire company's three pieces of equipment.

On Sunday members of the Nar-berth Post and its Auxiliary heard the Rev. Cletus A. Senft at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church deliver a sermon on "The Way to God's Peace."

David Stuart's wife, Goldie, and their four-year-old daughter, Betty, had accompanied him on the outing which resulted in his tragic death.

David Stuart formerly lived in North Carolina, but for the last year had been employed at the Sunshine Garage, Iona avenue, Narberth.

The Memorial Grouping

Narberth is taking pride in the Memorial Grouping which has been presented to the community by the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion.

It is a plot of beauty and dignity which adds much to the attractiveness of the borough playground.

Fittingly it marks a silent tribute to the men who made the supreme sacrifice for their country, and is a mute reminder of the disaster of War.

That many are pleased with the simplicity of the presentation and the sincerity of those Legionnaires who have worked hard to make the memorial a reality, is indicated in the voluntary contributions that have been received toward financing the expense of the grouping.

In the words of Burgess Hall, "there it is. There is nothing more to say except that Narberth is honored in accepting it."

Grace Moore at Narberth in "When You're in Love"

Grace Moore plays the part of an Australian opera singer in "When You're in Love," current at the Narberth. But don't think it's a high-brow picture; she also sings "Minnie the Moocher." The plot has to do with Miss Moore's efforts to remain in the United States after her passport time has expired. She marries Cary Grant as a formality for citizenship, then decides she wants him as well as his name.

Monday and Tuesday will see a return engagement of Sonja Heinie in "One in a Million." The ice ballet scenes with Miss Heinie, the comedy of Adolph Menjou and Ned Sparks plus the Three Ritz Brothers combine to make this one of the year's outstanding hits.

"Nancy Steele is Missing" on Wednesday (Cash Award Night) features Victor McLaglen and Walter Connolly in an exciting mystery drama not without its fun.

Next Thursday there will be a return engagement of "Dodsworth" with Walter Huston in the title role and with Ruth Chatterton and Mary Astor.

Wynnewood Delivery Starts Soon

It was announced this week by the Postoffice Department at Washington that house-to-house mail delivery would start in Wynnewood later this summer. Plans are now going forward, officials said, to inspect mail delivery schedules and other data.

The successful climax to the campaign for delivery service came after inauguration of the fight last spring by the Wynnewood Civic Association. It was later taken up by Postmistress Emma L. Eakins, who submitted petitions supporting the plan and other data to Washington.

It is understood increasing revenues of the Wynnewood postoffice and a population of more than 2,500 qualified the community for the service.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

A celebration such as few other large stores in all the world have reason to hold; the 69th Anniversary of a store which from a modest beginning on this same corner has progressed through sixty-nine years, gaining in size, gaining in volume of business done, gaining in the number of customers served with each succeeding decade.

OUR TOWN

Presents Diploma

E. E. BURLINGAME
president of the Lower Merion School Board, who will address the graduating class, and present the diplomas at the school's commencement exercises this Friday evening.

Anna Virginia Cole

Anna Virginia Cole, wife of James R. Cole, of 100 Chestnut avenue, who died at her home on Saturday is survived by her husband and daughter, Mrs. Helen Cole Wipf, two sisters, Mrs. Clifton J. Russell, of Annapolis, Md., and Mrs. Bessie Berry, of Philadelphia, and also a brother, William M. Sewell, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Cole was a member of the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church and Fernwood Lodge No. 141, Order Eastern Star.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at two o'clock at her late residence. The Rev. Cletus Senft of the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church assisted by the Rev. Archer Anderson of the Narberth Presbyterian Church officiated.

The interment was at Odd Fellows' Cemetery.

years preceding 1870 had increased from 2827 to only 4886. From 1870 to 1900, the population increased 8385 making a total for 1900 of 13,271. Lower Merion has continued its rapid growth as a result of the striking outward movement of population from the city to its suburban ring that has characterized the years since the turn of the century.

Today, the transformation from an agricultural community to a suburban residential area is almost complete. In other days, industry was represented by a number of small mills. Today, the Autocar Factory and Pencoed Iron Works are important industrial plants, but the significance of Lower Merion is wholly residential. The charm of the township is in its open character. Wise planning will help to retain this charm even though the density of population is considerably increased.

You will find helpful hints in the ads. Read them.

Survey and Recommendations of L. M. Planning Commission

TURNPIKE AND EARLY RAILROAD DAYS

The Schuylkill River was the first artery of traffic. Large canoes were used to transport goods. Later, when the anthracite coal trade flourished, a canal was built along the river to accommodate the heavy traffic. The first roads in Lower Merion were but trails and horses and foot transportation only were available. The settlement of Lancaster led to a demand for an adequate highway between that town and Philadelphia, resulting in the construction of the first turnpike in America. Completed in 1794, it was immediately successful and encouraged the building of other turnpikes in the region. Passing through Lower Merion, the Lancaster Turnpike played a part in the development of the township. It was over this famous road that the ponderous Conestoga wagons carried merchandise and settlers bound for the interior. With the coming of the railroads, turnpike traffic declined and, after a varied history, Lancaster Pike was purchased by the State Highway Department in 1917 and made a free road.

The Philadelphia and Columbia Railroad was the first railroad through Lower Merion and formed a part of the "Main Line of Public Works of Pennsylvania," a remarkable system of canals, portages and railways from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. Opened for use as far as Paoli in 1832, the Philadelphia and Columbia Railroad wound through the township paralleling Montgomery avenue to Athensville (Ardmore). From Haverford to Rosemont the route was along Old Railroad avenue. When the Pennsylvania Railroad took over the system, the old route to Ardmore was vacated and the line was shifted to its present location. The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, chartered in 1833, was built primarily to carry anthracite coal. Though it passes through the township along the Schuylkill, it has played but a small part in the development of the township.

MODERN GROWTH AS A SUBURBAN RESIDENTIAL AREA

The Pennsylvania Railroad, in a relocation through Humphreysville (Bryn Mawr), found it advisable to buy a number of properties. After reserving a right of way, the remainder of the property was utilized for a real estate development. This operation, plotted about 1870, contained restrictions as to use, setback, and cost and may be considered as the beginning of the development of Lower Merion as a suburban residential area. The population in the thirty Ralph Ross, former track star at Lower Merion, has set a new record at West Point in the pole vault. Ralph is a plebe at the Point but he has already topped the varsity mark of 13 feet 3 inches with a vault of 13 feet 5 inches. Another former Lower Merion vaulter is doing well at Duke University. Joe Leidy who broke the Suburban, District and P. I. A. A. records while at Lower Merion, is the first string vaulter for the North Carolina School.

Lower Merion dropped the big game with Haverford High School last week on Pennypacker Field. The South Ardmore clan got revenge for their former licking by defeating John Peters' hitless wonders 1 to 0 in a beautifully played game. Ray Ryder hurled another one of his fine exhibitions, but his work went for naught when his mates failed to bring any runs home. This was the fifth pitchers' battle in a row for the Maroon team. They won two of them, one from Norristown and one from Haverford—dropping one each to the same schools and the odd game to Abington.

Lower Merion failed to show too much up at Penn State in the State Championship track meet. Of course Coach Drumm did not have many outstanding stars this season. While his boys were away doing their bit in the P. I. A. A. meet, the Lower Merion Junior High squad went to town on Pennypacker Field in the Suburban Conference championships. The local lads almost doubled the score on Haverford High School which finished second. Upper Darby came third. Bill Strong, Holmes, McDonald and the members of the 114-pound relay team stood out as star performers for the Main Liners. Hodge was mainstay for the second place Haverford squad.

It is pleasing to note that Harvey Buck, former Lower Merion Junior High and Senior High athlete, will captain the Villanova track squad next spring.

Buck was a record man in the hurdles at both the Lower Merion schools while a student there and after football practice was over this year he went out and ran the hurdles for Villanova. In three meets he won five first places, concentrating in the 110 and 220 hurdles.

Buck is a fine athlete and should do well as a backfield ace at the college next fall.

Ray Menzer received quite a bit of publicity as a picker of winners in the Suburban Championships last Saturday. It's a shame to take the bunk out, but all Ray needed was the memory of names, for every single first place man was a cinch for the place. The winners have been stand-outs all year and finished exactly according to Hoyle. How about trying to pick a few winners at the Preakness or the Derby, Ray? You get paid for that.

Ditter Leads Attack on "Political Relief"

less political racket, manipulated by ambitious political gentlemen for the safety and security of the precinct job-holders."

So strong has this sentiment grown in the House during the last two weeks, that the Roosevelt proposal for an additional $1,500,000,000 for relief next year has struck a dangerous legislative snag. The President sent his bill to Congress with a demand it be enacted quickly.

But the relief scandals which come to light almost daily throughout the country have been aired on the floor for more than a week, as a result of which some Democratic leaders themselves have launched a demand for the ear-marking of one-third the appropriation, for roads, flood-control projects, and public buildings.

"Several of our great industries are employing more men today than they did at the very peak of our boom prosperity in 1929, and yet we still are carrying almost 5,000,000 people on relief," Ditter continued. "And we have voluminous evidence of the refusal of relief workers to accept regular employment in industry. It has been suggested that this is due in some degree to the desire of political bosses to keep their relief armies intact. But whatever the cause, it has had a demoralizing effect upon our people and had retarded to a great extent the resumption of normal industrial relations."

Further vigorous attack upon the Roosevelt-Hopkins system of political relief is anticipated when the bill reaches the Senate, next week.
